

proAbility is the dba in Rhode Island for The Arc of Bristol County. The Arc has over 50 years of experience in meeting the unique needs of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities and their families.

Named for its focus on Ability, the team at proAbility continually challenge themselves to meet the needs of children, families and adults through a wide array of services. Unlike other organizations that provide similar services, proAbility does not try to fit the individual to the service, but designs the service around the individual. We take great pride in working directly with individuals, families, funders and the community to provide creative supports even if it requires us to redesign our service deliver model. In each program, we will assist in the evaluation of current skill levels, goals and areas of need to design a program that works for YOU.

Residential and Family Supports

proAbility has designed a range of programs to help support individuals who are living in a private home with their family, or who have chosen to live independently in the community. Services include both 24 hour and non 24 hour assistance. Our dedicated team of direct support professionals guide skill development in areas that can include medical, personal care, money management, nutrition and meal preparation, socialization, and community based services.

Shared Living Arrangements

Offers individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities the opportunity to live in a family environment. These arrangements are established as a result of a highly individualized process in which the individual and the hosting person or family are determined to share similar life interests and personalities that support a safe, caring, and comfortable home environment.
